

Topic: Team building for schools to start the year

The start of the school year is an ideal time for students, teachers and staff to engage in team building.

Team building activities can be incorporated into leadership camps for senior students, induction days for new teachers and social events to help instil a strong culture.

They will help develop leadership, communication and teamwork skills and highlight the importance of responsibility, trust and bonding.

Here are four team building events we deliver for schools perfect for the start of the school year....

1. Survivor

Just like the reality TV show, Survivor presents challenging team activities to determine who is the ultimate survivor of the class or cohort. It is a great program to take advantage of the great outdoors especially on a school camp with some variety in the environment.

2. Mini Olympics / Commonwealths

This is a timely program that can bring the upcoming Commonwealth Games to life at school in a fun and creative way. Through a variety of sports that can be delivered in a school hall or oval, the main focus is fun, bonding and team dynamics.

3. Bikes for Tykes

One of the most powerful charity team building events for schools is Bikes for Tykes. This is a real process-driven program putting teams through their paces in a series of challenging activities to ultimately build a bike for donation to a child or family in need.

4. Safe Crack

This is a popular program, particularly for teachers and support staff, to hold during professional development days or as a social team event. Teams are tasked with bringing a diamond smuggling ring to justice by using skills in information interpretation, problem solving and lateral thinking.
